

Abstract of the disclosure

An apparatus for treating a body of water with a floating platform, a device for generating millimeter wave electromagnetic radiation connected to the floating platform, a transmitting antenna located below the floating platform, a receiving antenna located above the floating platform, a waveguide for conveying the millimeter wave electromagnetic energy to the transmitting antenna, and a power supply.